

CONFERENCE IN FORMOSA — At a secret U. S. airbase on the island of Formosa, these U. S. and Nationalist Chinese military leaders confer on strategy in an allied evacuation of the Tachon Islands. Admiral Felix Stump, American Naval Commander in the Pacific, said after a meeting with Generalissimo Chiang Kai

Reds Shell Yushan; Island Evacuation Move Held Up

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — An American source today said the finishing touches to an agreed announcement clarifying the status of the Nationalist Chinese offshore island outposts is being hammered out in Washington.

The report came on the heels of a Defense Ministry announcement that four Communist warships shelled Nationalist Yushan Island, 30 miles northeast of the explosive Tachens, then "fled under strong fire from the defenders." The Defense Ministry said most of the Communist shells fell into the sea.

Fleet Stands By
The source spoke shortly after

U. S. Ambassador Karl L. Rankin conferred at length with Shen Chang-huan, acting foreign minister.

Presumably the Washington announcement would spell out what the United States intends to do about the Tachens, as well as about other island outposts as Quemoy and Matsu.

The U. S. 7th Fleet, with the added support of swift Air Force Sabre jets, is standing by in the Formosa area, awaiting orders to help the Nationalists evacuate some 15,000 troops and 15,000 civilians from the Tachens, 200 miles to the north.

The order to start the evacuation was reported held up because the Nationalists don't want to abandon the Tachens before they have assurances the United States will help defend other island outposts off the Red mainland.

Cease-Fire Denounced
Even if an agreement is reached in Washington, it does not necessarily mean the Tachen evacuation would get underway immediately.

Other factors, such as the possibility of a cease-fire, could bring about more delays.

Peiping radio, heard in Tokyo, gave no indication that the Chinese Reds would agree to a cease-fire, which they have opposed as bitterly as the Nationalists.

(Peiping said New Zealand's cease-fire proposal in the United Nations was "only one of the steps in the United States' cease-fire trick" and declared it "contravenes the charter of the United Nations.")

(The broadcast, quoting the official Peiping Peoples' Daily, repeated its support for the Soviet demand that all U. S. armed forces be withdrawn from the Formosa area and the coastal islands be turned over to the Reds.)

(Peiping also aired its oft-repeated threat to liberate Formosa and the Pescadores.)

Six Knifers Escape From Jail At Flint; All But One Caught

FLINT (AP) — Six knife-wielding prisoners overpowered two guards and escaped from the Genesee County jail in a bold break Monday night. But by daybreak five were back in custody.

One guard was stabbed in the fourth floor cellblock uprising. One escapee still is hunted.

Two making the break were captured within 80 minutes by state police. Three others were nabbed at 2:30 a.m. today by state troopers on M 78 about 15 miles northeast of Lansing.

When they spotted the car zooming along M 78 troopers were looking for four escapees. The car carried four men. They stopped the car. Three occupants were unable to give officers a satisfactory explanation of where they had been or where they were going. Finally the three admitted their identities.

They were Bernard Carlson, 23, Benjamin Wood, 18, and Fred McCormick, 31, all of Flint. They had hitched a ride with Floyd Wagner, Flint factory worker who was returning to his home in Laingsburg.

Police said Wagner had not known his passengers were fugitives.

All the escapees were awaiting trial except Leslie Edinger, 51, of Flint, the only one still at large. He was serving one year for uttering and publishing.

Carlson was charged with burglary; Wood with armed robbery and McCormick with attempted burglary.

Ralph DeMar 29, of Flint, and Edardo Escalada, 29, of Detroit, were captured on U. S. 10 just outside of Flint shortly after the escape.

The break occurred about 9 p.m. (EST) when turnkey Art Harmon, 50, and special deputy William Marshall, 48, opened the cellblock's recreation room door to order the inmates to bed.

Harmon was jumped and dragged into the day room. Marshall was overpowered by four of the prisoners and stabbed in the arm. He said two of the fugitives carried knives fashioned from prison coffee spoons.

The two officers were shut in the dayroom and the automatically locking door was closed. The six prisoners fled down four flights of stairs and ran out through the jail kitchen.

The six-story jail is in downtown Flint on the corner of South Saginaw and Court. It houses 160 prisoners.

Sheriff's deputies said six prisoners on the fourth floor refused an invitation to join in the break.

Rubinstein Case Clues Are Slim

NEW YORK (AP) — Ten mysterious fingerprints found in the bedroom of Serge Rubinstein were checked today in search for the killer of the millionaire financier and draft dodger.

Discovery of these prints was disclosed Monday by Asst. Dist. Atty. Alexander Herman.

Mindful of the 46-year-old Rubinstein's playboy reputation, police are checking the 10 prints against those on file for more than 5,000 night club entertainers.

Although the prints could lead to the person who strangled Rubinstein in his lavish 5th Avenue home five days ago, they also might turn out to be as unimportant as a woman's purse and glove that sparked police interest for a time.

Herman said these female belongings, found in the slain man's bedroom, had been traced to Pat Wray, one of Rubinstein's cafe society girl friends. She told police she left them there last fall, he said.

Authorities, still baffled by the mysterious slaying, continued to check the more than 1,000 names Rubinstein listed in his notebooks. Reportedly these included names of top Hollywood figures and persons high in Las Vegas, Nev., gambling circles.

Peninsula Left Out Of Plans For Michigan 4-Lane Highways

LANSING (AP) — A billion and a quarter dollar program to build more than 2,000 miles of divided four-lane highways in Michigan was being studied by Gov. Williams today.

The governor was greatly impressed with it, saying it provided a 10-year plan for coordinating 400 million dollars in toll roads, a 500 million dollar highway construction bond issue and possibly 750 million in increased federal aid. But Williams did not commit himself definitely to it.

Based On Traffic Data
The plan was submitted by a special committee Williams designated to develop priorities for spending the 500 million dollar bond issue he has recommended to the Legislature and the voters.

The committee consisted of Sen. Haskell L. Nichols (R-Jackson) State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler and William Palmer of East Lansing, secretary of the Michigan Petroleum Industries Committee.

It was based on highway department need and traffic data and represented Williams' attempt to short circuit a legislative demand that no bond issue decision be made until a statewide survey is completed next fall.

Palmer said, "This offers real possibilities of a program which the voters will approve because they will know what they are getting."

Detroit To Soo Included

Ziegler estimated that the Turnpike Authority would take up 400 million dollars of the $1,200,000,000 "system" in its proposed Detroit-Saginaw and Detroit-Chicago toll roads. He said the state might get 750 million dollars of federal aid in the next 10 years.

Ziegler said the state could build the billion-and-a-quarter-dollar system in six to 10 years.

The plan would provide these four-lane divided highways:

- 1 — Between Detroit and Sault Ste. Marie via Standish and Roscommon.
- 2 — Between Detroit and Muskegon via U. S. 16.
- 3 — From Grand Rapids to Holland to Benton Harbor.
- 4 — From Indiana to Cadillac along U. S. 131.
- 5 — From Holland to Muskegon to Ludington.
- 6 — From Lansing to Flint to Port Huron.
- 7 — From Ohio on U. S. 127 to Jackson and Lansing, there connecting with U. S. 27 and providing a complete route from Ohio to the Higher Wages And Fewer Jobs, 1955 Forecast

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Higher wages but fewer jobs is the forecast for 1955 received by AFL leaders today as they opened top-level winter meetings.

The AFL Executive Council, 17-member policy-making group of the big labor organization, studied a report prepared by AFL economists predicting that unions will win substantial wage boosts this year.

The report, at the same time, expressed fear that unemployment will average about 4,000,000 throughout the year, or a million higher than the 3,000,000 jobless average of 1954.

An above normal increase among the available workers, partly due to scheduled reductions in the military forces, plus new productive efficiencies, were listed as reasons for the expected hike in the number of unemployed.

The AFL council was expected to endorse several steps designed to bolster the economy and help reduce unemployment. One favorite AFL antidote is higher exemptions to reduce income tax payments among wage earners. Another is to increase the present 75 cents an hour federal minimum wage.

The report said government expenditures and business outlays for new plants and equipment are expected to decline, and the work force may expand by 900,000 as more young men are released from the armed services.

Bar Falls From Plane, Hits Child In House

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Five-year-old Daniel Pohlman is in a hospital here today with two gashes in his head from a two-pound metal bar that fell from a B25 and plummeted through the roof of his Dayton home.

Officials at nearby Wright-Patterson Air Force Base said the 12-inch bar was one used to close the cover over the plane's retractable wheel. It flew through the roof of the Pohlman home and struck Daniel as he was watching television.

Peiping Answer Awaited On Bid To Argue Truce

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — U. N. Security Council discussion of a cease-fire in the Formosa Strait today awaited China's answer to the council's bid for Peiping spokesmen to join in the debate.

U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold cabled the invitation to the Chinese Communist capital Monday night after the council voted to:

1. Take up New Zealand's request for debate on "hostilities in the area of certain islands" off China;
2. Invite the Chinese Reds to participate in the debate; and
3. Delay until after the New Zealand proposal council consideration of renewed Soviet demands for immediate withdrawal of U. S. armed forces from the Formosa area and surrender of the coastal islands to Peiping.

The council then recessed its sessions until Hammarskjold hears from Peiping.

U. S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. voted with eight other council members to extend the invitation to Peiping. But Lodge quickly made plain to the council his vote meant no change in U. S. opposition to seating Red China in the U. N. or in American refusal to recognize the Peiping regime.

Lodge said because Red China is a party to the armed conflict, the United States has to deal with Peiping just as it had to the Korean and Indochina truce questions at Geneva. The U. N. Charter also requires that both sides in a dispute before the council must be invited to debates, but Red China would have no vote.

Lodge endorsed the New Zealand proposal, which envisions the writing of a council cease-fire resolution after Red China and all other parties have been heard in the debate. The U. S. delegate called the Soviet resolution a "preposterous cold war fraud."

Tenement Blaze Kills 11 Children And Father Of 5

AMSTERDAM, N. Y. (AP) — Eleven children and the father of five of them perished in a fire that destroyed a 10-family tenement early today.

Five other persons were injured, one critically.

Police said the fire, which occurred about midnight was caused by an overflowing oil stove.

An undetermined number of persons fled in their nightclothes into a snowstorm and sub-freezing temperatures.

Awakened By Dog
Mrs. Anna Gagliardi said a dog's bark awakened her. Smelling smoke, she dragged her 84-year-old mother, Mrs. Celia Kosiba, feet first, from their ground-floor apartment.

Patrolman Marvin Swart, who was in a patrol car 10 blocks from the scene, kicked in three doorways.

"The fire was a ball of flame inside," he said. "I found a boy about 13 kneeling, dead beside a crib. The baby in the crib was dead, too.

"There was a lot of screaming, and one woman kept hollering to go back for her two dogs."

The dogs were reported to have been saved.

Oil Drums Explode
Asst. Fire Chief Samuel Palumbo said four 50-gallon oil drums in the basement kept exploding.

"It was impossible at the time to send firemen in there to get anybody without losing extra life," he said.

The roof of the building collapsed and portions crashed into the cellar.

Most of the residents were believed to be Puerto Ricans.

Bodies recovered included those of:

Juan Ribera, 40, and his children, John, 14; Ilda, 11, Domingo, 9; Antel, 5; a 1-year-old boy and two of the four children of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Motyka.

Two other Motyka children were trapped in the two-story brick building, were believed dead.

Two children of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Heaton also were trapped and considered dead. They were Donna, 3, and Marion, 6 months.

Police and firemen said the fire broke out in the Heaton apartment. The Ribera apartment was directly above.

Mrs. Ribera was in a hospital at the time of the fire.

Children Trapped In Fire; 6 Dead

CHUCKATUCK, Va. (AP) — Six children, ranging in age from 3 to 14 years, were burned to death when fire trapped them on the second floor of their frame home near this eastern Virginia community Monday night.

The 34-year-old father, Robert L. Eley, said he was awakened by a roaring noise after all had gone to bed. Flames cut him off from the upstairs when he came down to investigate, he said.

The mother, Evalina Eley, 28, was at work on a night shift at the Planters Nut and Chocolate Co. in Suffolk.

Firemen recovered the bodies of the children. They were William Henry Eley, 14; Robert L. Eley Jr., 11; Willie Mae Eley, 10; Ruby Eley, 8; Catherine Eley, and Betty Gene Eley, 3. They were Negroes.

Firemen theorized the blaze started from a wood-burning heater.

Military Cuts May Influence Debate On Draft Extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Pentagon dispute over administration plans to cut Army strength was out in the open today and apparently destined for considerable debate when Congress considers military appropriations and draft extension.

Pressed by members of the House Armed Services Committee for his views on the projected 140,000-man cut, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Army chief of staff, said Monday he felt it would "jeopardize" national security "to a degree."

Previously, Ridgway's objections had been reported, but unconfirmed.

Sitting next to Ridgway, Secretary of the Army Stevens indicated he may at one time have leaned toward Ridgway's view.

"I have adjusted my thinking completely to the balanced program," Stevens said, "and have no higher figure in mind."

The Army's civilian chief declared himself "well satisfied" with the size of forces allotted the Army, describing them as adequate to do the job at hand.

It is the administration's plan to trim the Army from 1,170,000 men as of last July 1 to 1,100,000 by next June 30 and to 1,027,000 by mid-1956. The stated objective is to maintain military forces in balance with economic factors.

As the House committee turned its attention to President Eisenhower's request for a four-year extension of the draft law, Rep. Brooks (D-Ia.) said congressional concern over the new manpower program is certain to show up in House and Senate debate when the draft bill is considered.

"If the Army is being reduced, people are going to ask why the draft law must be extended four years," he told newsmen.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) said he hoped the committee would have a draft bill ready for the House by next Monday.

Field And Wife Stay In Hungary

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Noel Field, former U. S. State Department employee released recently after five years in Communist jails, says he and his wife intend to remain in Red-ruled Hungary indefinitely. The Budapest government has granted them political asylum at their request.

The U. S. legation said Monday that Field and his wife Herta assured U. S. Minister Christian M. Ravndal "that their request for political asylum was entirely voluntary and they plan to remain here indefinitely."

Field met and talked Monday with Ravndal and the legation's chancellor Spencer Barnes at an undisclosed location, a legation spokesman said.

City Offers To Deed Site For Local Armory And Community Center

The Escanaba City Council yesterday adopted a resolution calling for the City of Escanaba to deed a suitable site to the State of Michigan for an armory and community building "when the size and location of the site are determined and approved."

This action was taken at a special meeting of the Council in the council chambers of the city hall here yesterday afternoon.

It was explained by the Armory Project committee appointed at the last regular meeting of the Council that this action "makes it a matter of record with the Michigan National Guard that Escanaba is definitely interested in an armory and will offer a suitable site when certain conditions have been met."

Need Priority

The matter of the community taking the initiative, offering a site and deeding the necessary land to the state are extremely important in obtaining a priority for the expenditure of $275,000 of Federal and state funds for a local armory, it was pointed out.

The resolution follows:

WHEREAS, it has been obvious since activation of a National

5 1/2 Inches Of Snow Reported

The heaviest snowstorm of the winter season descended on Escanaba yesterday but the absence of a high wind made the storm less troublesome than usual. Five and a half inches of snow fell on the city during the day.

The snowfall began shortly before eight yesterday morning and continued throughout the day, dwindling to minor flurries late Monday night. Escanaba apparently was in the center of the storm. Even the north part of Delta County caught only a portion of the snowfall. Less than an inch of snow was reported at the Soo, 1 1/2 inches at Marquette and only one-tenth of an inch at Green Bay. The heaviest snowfall was between Escanaba and Menominee, tapering off southward.

All state and county roads are open but some of the roads are still slippery, road officials reported. Snowplows were put into action about 2:30 yesterday afternoon.

William Karas, county highway superintendent, said that there still could be plenty of trouble if a wind in excess of 25 miles per hour developed. Karas explained that the snow was light and would drift if caught by a strong wind. Monday's snow was not accompanied by strong winds.

Except for inconvenience to motorists, the snowstorm did not cause any extensive damage in the area. Telephone and power lines, usually absorbing the brunt of storm damage, were unaffected by Monday's snowfall.

Light flurries continued today but there is no prospect of a major storm in this area.

City Will Open State Building Bids On March 3

Plans for a public office building in Escanaba to cost more than $300,000 were accepted by Escanaba City Council, subject to state approval, and the date of March 3 was set by the city to receive bids for the construction of the proposed building at a special meeting of the Council held yesterday afternoon.

Action by the City Council followed approval by Judge Glenn W. Jackson in Circuit Court of a petition by the City of Escanaba for authorization to invest more than $300,000 in the Catherine Bonifas Trust Fund in the construction of the city-county-state office building.

Arni and Walter Arntzen, of G. Arntzen Architect & Company, Escanaba, who drew the plans for the proposed structure, informed the Council the state architect has approved the building plans. The Council requested that such approval be placed in writing, and accepted the plans.

The City Council adopted a second resolution authorizing the city clerk to receive bids March 3, regular meeting date for the Council, for the construction of the state office building. Separate proposals on the wiring, heating, etc., will be requested.

Copies of Judge Jackson's opinion in which he approved the city's petition to invest the Catherine Bonifas money in the state office building project were distributed to the Councilmen. Mayor Harlan Yelland presided at the special meeting and all Councilmen were present.

The city proposes to construct the office building on city-owned land in the 300 block, Ludington Street.

Economic Report:

Soviet Laborers Steal To Exist In Russ 'Paradise'

Laborers in the Soviet Union and in its satellite countries lack incentive, they do shoddy work to meet government-established quotas, and they are one of the major weaknesses in the Soviet economic situation.

This description of the Communist "workers' paradise" was presented by Peter Kalinke, 27, German youth who was once a prisoner of the Russians, in a talk to the Escanaba Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs at a meeting Monday noon at the House of Ludington. Kalinke came to the United States in 1953 as a Fulbright Scholar and is now studying at University of Michigan.

Kalinke is studying for his Master's Degree in sociology and is touring the Upper Peninsula under sponsorship of the University of Michigan Extension Service. He was introduced at the meeting of the service clubs by Charles Folio, regional supervisor of the U. of M. Extension Service.

Economic Revolution

Born in Breslau, Silesia, Germany, Kalinke was captured in Prague in 1945 at the end of the war and was in a prison camp in Soviet Asia from 1945-48; and from 1948-49 in Stalingrad. He was released in January 1950.

Limiting himself to discussing the "more general phases of the weakness of the Soviet economic situation," Kalinke noted that in 1921 the main Soviet policy was the announced change from a rural to an industrial economy. This was the policy undertaken despite the fact that the people are predominantly rural and there were few cities of industrial importance.

In the revolution there had been a purge of the intellectuals. With the beginning of the Soviet government's first five-year plan the assistance of many foreign engineers and experts—including Americans—was received.

The purging of the intellectuals as potential enemies of the state, including many Jews, was a policy of the German Nazis as well as the Russian Communists, Kalinke noted.

Morale Broken

"Not all of the Germans were Nazis," he said, "nor are all of the Russians Communists. I must say this in fairness to the people, because I so often hear in this country the generalization that all are Nazis or Communists."

Tremendous difficulties were encountered by the Soviet government in efforts to fill production quotas under the plan. By 1931-32 the country was caught in an agricultural crisis—people were starving in a country where agricultural production had always been high.

The morale of the people had been broken under Stalin and his MVD Troops, Kalinke said. Never culturally unified, speaking several languages, the people were now being asked to produce for a government that carried out incessant nationalistic propaganda.

"A gigantic brain - washing method," Kalinke described the slogans and pictures that hammer home to the Russian people the lesson "of American capitalism and Wall Street pigs." Despite the propaganda, the people hear the tales of their soldiers concerning the higher living standards in other countries where they fought—and they wonder.

Meeting The Quota

Working as an employee of the government, at low pay, the Soviet laborer (and his boss) make a practice of thievery on the job, Kalinke said. In this "workers' paradise" thefts range from shoes to building materials, with the boss stealing most because he is the boss.

Kalinke described how the worker in Russia keeps pace with the quotas or "norms" established by the government. In Stalingrad where he was employed as a prisoner, Kalinke was installing ventilators in bathrooms in a housing project. He finished three in one day and was told his "norm" was 10 a day. He was discouraged until a Russian explained how it could be done: The vents were set in the wall without breaking a connecting hole through the masonry to connect with the vent chimney! The quota was met but the bathrooms were unventilated.

Until 1952 Soviet industry was geared to production for the army, but the trend is now toward the production of more consumer goods for the people, Kalinke reported.

WAS PRISONER OF SOVIET—Peter Kalinke of Germany, now a Fulbright Scholar studying at University of Michigan, speaks from personal experience of the situation within Soviet Russia. Captured in 1945, he was a prisoner of the Soviet from 1945-49. He continued his studies in Europe following release and in 1952 worked with the State Department on special research on Soviet prison camps. He came to the United States in July 1953 and is studying for his Master's Degree in Sociology. (Daily Press Photo)

Christian Tradition

Thieving on the job to augment the low pay is not indicative that Russian people are dishonest, Kalinke hastened to add. "Dishonesty isn't the right word when your belly is empty," he said. "And it is hard for people to produce when they are fed on black bread and sour potatoes."

There is among the Russian people a "deep Christian tradition," Kalinke said. Icons are covered in Russian homes, but they are there, and in the shops will be seen persons who make the sign of the cross over their loaf of bread," he added.

No totalitarian economy can afford to consider humanity and that is why the Soviet government likes slave labor—it is cheap said Kalinke.

Millions of persons inside the Iron Curtain have a hatred for their government, a belief confirmed by escapees from Russia, Kalinke reported. Help to the myriads of spiritual allies inside Russia and to let them know that the free world has not abandoned them is the program of American Friends of Russian Freedom, Inc., Kalinke said. Contributions to this organization, located at 279 Park Ave., New York 17, N. Y., help maintain a program to aid victims of Communism who have dared so much to escape to the free world.

Accident Case Heard By Jury

A personal injury and property damage suit in which the estate of the late John O. Erickson, Milwaukee is the plaintiff and Narcis Thibault and son Willard, of Rapid River, defendant, is being tried by jury in Delta County Circuit Court.

The case is the aftermath of a car crash on Highway U. S. 2 between Escanaba and Gladstone on the night of June 24, 1946, the plaintiff alleging that Erickson, driver of the plaintiff's car, was so badly injured that his health was seriously and permanently impaired and that his son, Roger, 13 and daughter Barbara, 10 also received injuries to a lesser degree. The car, according to the opening statement of the plaintiff's attorney, was a total loss. The plaintiff also alleges that the Erickson car was on the proper side of the highway when the crash occurred and that the driver had attempted to climb the curb to avoid being hit.

The defendants claim that Erickson was on the wrong side of the highway and that his injuries were not as severe as alleged in the claim. They also are presenting counter claims for injuries they claim they sustained and for loss of their car.

The trial was started at a previous session, but the plaintiff requested an amendment of the declaration shortly before the case was to go to the jury and Judge Glenn W. Jackson ruled for a new trial. Erickson died in 1952.

Six prospective jurors were excused or rejected before the complete jury was selected Monday. On the jury are H. A. Harvey, Alice M. Allen, Nelson Sorault, Margaret Hughes, Irene Reno, Florence Neumeier, Minnie Bjorquist and Lillian Weyerker, all of Escanaba; Laura Gnat, Gladstone; Rita Sturdy, Wells; Archie Sanville, Cornell and Adolph Urbank, Bark River.

The remainder of the jury panel has been dismissed as this is the last case to come up for consideration in the current term.

April 4 Date For Election On Electric Issue Has Much Merit

THE action of the Escanaba City Council in changing the date for the election on the city's electric power issue from March 1 to coincide with the spring election April 4 is a good move.

The April 4 election date will assure a more representative poll on the vital power issue than would likely develop on March 1. The spring election contests combined with the city's electric issue should bring out a large vote in Escanaba on April 4. Whatever decision is made on the power issue in that election will not be subject to criticism on the grounds that conditions conducive to a light vote prevailed.

Words, Wit & Wisdom

By William Morris

Dictionary editors, you'll not be surprised to learn, aren't a notably jocular lot. Not for them the light banter of a newspaper city room nor even the more ponderous joke-telling of a teachers' convention. However, the learned lexicographers do have their little collection of witty, if rather recondite, stories. Perhaps you'll bear with me while I recount one about Dr. Samuel Johnson, first of the great English dictionary editors.

Johnson was basking in the merited adulation of London's intellectuals shortly after publication of his dictionary when he was approached one day by a spirited dower. Instead of praising his work, she took him sharply to task for omitting a fairly common word from his new dictionary.

"Dr. Johnson," she cried, "I simply cannot understand your failure to enter that word! Why did you leave it out?"

"Ignorance, madam," answered Johnson. "Sheer ignorance."

Today, some two centuries after this memorable admission that even lexicographers can err, your correspondent would like to "cop the same plea." You may recall a piece in this space a few weeks ago concerning new antibiotic drugs. In reporting that competition between drug firms had reduced the wholesale price of penicillin from five cents to one cent per dose, I attempted to indicate the percentage of the reduction—but let Mr. Brooks Cottle, Editor of the Morgantown (W. Va.) POST, take it from here:

"I believe you are wrong in saying that the wholesale bulk price of penicillin has been reduced 'nearly 400 per cent.' Unless you start giving money away with a product, you can't reduce its sales price more than 100 per cent. I have changed your copy to read 'nearly 75 per cent,' but perhaps the true correction would be 'nearly 80 per cent'—that depending upon whether you would say, in reverse, that an increase from 1 to 4 is a 300 or a 400 per cent increase. I would say 300; some people say 400."

I too would say 300. But that's the last word you'll hear from me on matters mathematical. Henceforth, I shall refer all items requiring computation to Univac and retire quietly to my word books with Dr. Johnson's "Ignorance, sheer ignorance" echoing in memory.

Creations of the inimitable Fred Allen who reappear in his nostalgic book, "Treadmill to Oblivion," include the only armless sculptor in the world (he put the chisel in his mouth and his wife hit him on the back of the head with a mallet); Professor Gulpo, who swallowed umbrellas (he was putting something away for a rainy day); and an uncle who brought his goldfish to the aquarium every year for a two-week romp. One day, however, Uncle fell into the tank himself, and they couldn't tell him from the other fish.

Finally, they threw a picture of Allen's aunt into the water—and when one of the fish recognized it and tried to escape from the tank they grabbed him.

For twenty years, claims Fred, his mother in Boston kept a light burning in the window for him. When he came home

The electric issue is perhaps the most important that has confronted the voters of Escanaba and the residents of the community in many years. It is important that a heavy vote be polled on this issue so that a true representation of the will of the majority of local voters may be achieved.

The later date also will provide a longer time in which the voters may acquaint themselves with the facts in this issue although, frankly, we don't think the original March 1 date was inadequate from the time factor.

The one issue to be decided in this election is whether or not the city will sell its electric distribution system and turn to private power as a means of solving the electric shortage. The voters will not be asked to make a choice between private power, REA-power or power generated by a municipal plant. If the voters accept the proposal of the Upper Peninsula Power and Light Co. to purchase the city's electric distribution system, a final decision of the power question will have been made. If they reject the proposal, a choice must then be made between the two remaining alternatives, accepting the offer of the Alger-Delta Electric Cooperative or deciding to construct a municipal generating plant.

A JAPANESE CRISIS WE MAY SHORTLY FACE (Detroit Free Press)

As expected, Japan's new premier, Ichiro Hatoyama, has set out to develop closer trade and travel relations with the Soviet Union and Red China.

He expressed it as a "normalizing" move. In a sense, this would be true since the three nations long have been tied together by important trade lines.

But, in pre-World War II days, Japan was the dominant power, intent on extending her "co-prosperity sphere" of influence. Today, she is the weakest, dependent on the United States for support.

The problem of what to do about Japan's "natural economic inclinations" to resume trade with her Communist neighbors, and what that will mean in light of present-day political facts of life, is rapidly coming to a head.

Detroit banker, Joseph M. Dodge, is working on it as President Eisenhower's special umpire on foreign aid matters. A decision may be forced when Hatoyama, who now is really presiding over an interim government, stands for election in February or March.

We are now in the season when the jack of all trades goes into the same thing—cleaning up those Christmas bills.

Young folks consider open fires much better than steam heat. Imagine getting mushy about a radiator.

Today And Tomorrow

By WALTER LIPPMANN

With the adoption of the Formosa resolution, after the White House statement and Sen. George's interpretation of it, the position is as follows: Congress has promised to support the defense of Formosa and the Pescadores, and has given the President assurance that it trusts his judgment on what military measures are prudent and necessary. The President in his turn has promised Congress that he will take personal responsibility for the military measures. In effect the President has asked and has received a vote of personal confidence in his Formosa policy.

If this were a domestic matter, that would be sufficient and all would be well. But the second phase of this great matter is about to begin. The Administration policy, as the President said in his message, is to seek a cease-fire through the United Nations. The question we must ask ourselves is whether the resolution as adopted by the Congress takes a position that can be expected to command the support of the Security Council—even apart from the Soviet Union, which would surely veto it.

It seems most unlikely. The resolution appears to base our right to defend Formosa and the Pescadores on our national interests, rather than on the juridical situation resulting from the Japanese war. The resolution, moreover, makes the United States in the person of the President the judge of what military measures are legitimate in territory which is legally part of China. If the United Nations are to take a hand, as quite rightly we wish them to, it will be necessary to find a legitimate legal basis for the line of the cease-fire and it will be necessary to find a procedure for regulating military action in the area.

NEGOTIATE WITH U. N.

Some of us, I for one, have been hoping but in vain that the official position taken by the Government would be one which would command the approval and the support of our allies and friends in the Security Council. We would have liked to see a resolution which would have been as acceptable in the friendly U. N. as in Congress. For then the neutralization of Formosa and the Pescadores would have had the backing not only of the Seventh Fleet but of the preponderant opinion of mankind. We should have liked to have had not two resolutions but one resolution, or at least substantially the same resolution, for Congress and for the United Nations. As it is, we shall now have to negotiate about another resolution which, even if it cannot pass the Soviet veto, will at least have the support of most of the rest of the United Nations.

There is little doubt that a United Nations resolution is bound to take cognizance in one way or another of the radical legal difference between the position of the off-shore islands on the one hand, and of Formosa and the Pescadores on the other. A line of demarcation is indispensable to a cease-fire, and there can be no other line than the juridical line. This line, we must remember, is not, as was suggested on the floor of the Senate last week, something dreamed up by columnists. It is a line based on the Japanese peace treaty which was negotiated by Mr. John Foster Dulles.

NO "SANCTUARY"

Nor does the line mean that on the other side of it there is a "privileged sanctuary" in case of war. The juridical line is the line which neither side can pass without committing aggression. It is not a line which has anything to do with what may be done in reply to aggression.

What could be done, assuming the juridical line were the line of the cease-fire, in case reconnaissance and intelligence reports showed that there was a build-up for a violation of the cease-fire? Remembering that the conquest of Formosa is a formidable military undertaking, and that large fleets and forces, which cannot be hidden, would have to be concentrated, there would be ample time to go to the Security Council and show evidence that the cease-fire was threatened. This procedure would relieve the President of the awful responsibility of being the sole judge—possibly against the urging of his military advisers—of whether or not military action is called for.

Fast-Stepping Swindlers Find Interpol Net Hard To Dodge

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS—(NEA)—The International Criminal Police Commission's files would provide wonderful plots for authors of "whodunits"—except the stories would all have much the same ending. Sometimes it is a matter of years, but eventually the criminal cannot escape the organization's far-flung network.

Typically international and considered the most spectacular case history in Interpol's annals is that of two clever crooks who, three months from the time the international "signals" went out, were arrested 6000 miles apart.

On March 29, 1954, Curacao police sent a message to Interpol in Paris that British-born Harry B. and American-born Robert T. were wanted for swindling.

They had paid for extensive purchases running into thousands of dollars in jewelry and other stores in the West Indian ports of Curacao and Aruba with forged checks on a San Francisco bank. They had operated separately, giving their names as Norman J. Stanton and John Rice. Both had produced visiting cards indicating they were engineers from San Francisco.

A warrant was made out for their arrest with a request for extradition wherever they might be.

Interpol in Paris went to work and two days later circulated two international radio signals.

Then started a man hunt which was to cover two continents. After their coup in Curacao, the two swindlers had flown to Venezuela, where they separated.

The American went to Havana, the Britisher to Trinidad.

London took up from there and traced B. to Great Britain. A few days later Scotland Yard advised that T. had boarded a Paris-bound plane from Manchester. He was trailed to Paris, to Lisbon and to Madrid. There he was arrested by the Spanish police as he was enplaning for New York.

But then the affair became slightly complicated. T's fingerprints, when sent to Paris for confirmation, were found to be identical to those of B., his accomplice. Interpol's secretary general asked Scotland Yard to confirm that the man arrested in Madrid was the same B. who already had been sentenced to jail terms in England and other places.

Meanwhile, Madrid advised that B. had admitted traveling under T's passport. He said his accomplice had a home in San Juan, Puerto Rico, where they had planned to meet in June.

Next the FBI came into the picture with an Interpol request that instructions be given to find T. Then London cabled that T. had gone from Trinidad to Antigua, in the West Indies, and had never set foot in England.

While the police of various countries were trying to untangle the case, Interpol's Paris headquarters learned that six false checks had been cashed by B. in Paris in the name of Stanton. It also learned that both men were wanted by the police in the U.S.A., Mexico, Guatemala, Venezuela and Cuba on charges of swindling and fraud.

B.'s record showed that starting in 1938 he had been sentenced to prison terms in England, Ireland, Canada, Singapore, as well as in California and Texas. T. was just a beginner. His first sentence dated from 1931.

The Soviets have got the H-bomb. There is no doubt about it. —AEC Chairman Strauss.

I. was finally arrested in Antigua last July 5, where he had been traced through a telegram sent by his accomplice a few weeks before. Interpol had found its wanted men—after exchanging more than 150 telegrams with 23 member nations.

Large-scale drug trafficking and counterfeiting, robberies and hold-ups, and especially since the last war, the false passport racket make up over two-thirds of international crime records.

Right now Interpol members are busy working out the ways and means of fighting the highly-organized world traffic in gold. The extensive mail-bag robberies which have taken place in England over the last six years, estimated at 30 million pounds sterling, and the recent theft in London of 40.5 million pounds sterling of gold have been traced by the police to the head of a gang known as "The General."

Although Scotland Yard has put its best sleuths on the case, so far they have been unable to put their hands on this crime overlord.

Latest reports are that the smugglers have used RAF personnel to move the loot by sewing sheets of gold inside the vest linings of aircraft crews. The gang is known to have affiliations abroad but watches set up at air and coastal ports have yielded nothing.

Latest rumors circulating in London's underworld are that the loot was to be divided among nine associates, including a mysterious blonde known as the "Black Orchid." She is supposed to have been unhappy with her share of the spoils and it is hoped that she may give the gang away.

Even if she doesn't, the odds are that Interpol will eventually find "The General," for about the only type of case it never handles in an international spy.

CAUGHT IN INTERPOL'S DRAGNET, sheets of counterfeit American bills are examined by a member of the International Criminal Police Commission in Paris, where the bogus money makers were tracked down. Gold smuggling is now Interpol's big headache.

Latest reports are that the smugglers have used RAF personnel to move the loot by sewing sheets of gold inside the vest linings of aircraft crews. The gang is known to have affiliations abroad but watches set up at air and coastal ports have yielded nothing.

Edson In Washington

By PETER EDSON

(NEA Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—In addition to the stock market investigation which Senator J. William Fulbright (D., Ark.) will direct as chairman of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, the U. S. Securities and Exchange Commission under Chairman Ralph Demmler keeps a constant check on all trading and exchanges. SEC never makes public announcements of the market fluctuations it is investigating. But any stock that goes up or down against the trend automatically starts an SEC checkup.

Even rumors that may have some effect on stock prices are run down by SEC to see if there is evidence of manipulation. Many rumors SEC may never hear about. But newspapers stories, advertising, radio and television comment in this field are all fair game for SEC investigations to protect the investing public.

SEC takes this action under its authority from the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934.

THE LAW GIVES SEC authority to regulate exchanges, brokers and over-the-counter dealers. There are prohibitions against misrepresentation, manipulation and other fraudulent or deceptive devices in purchase and sale of securities.

The usual procedure for an SEC investigation in this field—if evidence of irregularity is uncovered—is to issue an order for formal hearings. These are held before a "hearing commissioner" who may take evidence under oath.

The hearing commissioner then makes a report to the full five-member commission, which reviews the evidence. SEC may take three main courses of action:

1: It may revoke the license of the broker and expel him or suspend him from further trading on the exchange.

If a broker feels that he has been unjustly dealt with, he may go to court and petition that SEC's disciplinary action be lifted.

2: SEC itself may go to court and request an injunction order to stop irregular practices.

In one recent case of this kind, the government got an injunction against a promoter who had given misleading information to a New York financial writer. Clippings of the resulting publicity were used to tout a stock. This practice was stopped.

THREE: SEC may also start criminal proceedings in the courts, through Department of Justice district attorneys. Actions are brought against dealers or others who have used illegal means to promote the sale of a stock or influence trading on the exchanges. Penalties are two years' imprisonment, $10,000 fine, or both, on conviction.

There have not been too many court tests of this section of the SEC act. Evidence is hard to get and proof of conspiracy to defraud the public is difficult to establish before a court. In all, not more than half a dozen of these cases have gone to trial since the act was passed in 1934.

SEC officials will not say whether they are investigating it or not, but financial papers have said it would be naive to suppose that there would be no government follow-up on the recent Walter Winchell TV tip on Pantepec Oil Co. stock.

IN A SUNDAY NIGHT broadcast, the attention of listeners was directed to this company which owns petroleum rights in Venezuela.

The American Stock Exchange price had closed at 6 1/2 the week before. When the market opened Monday morning there was a mysterious delay in a quotation. Orders for over 350,000 shares had piled up. The initial price posted was 8 five-eighths—a jump of 2 1/4 or over 30 per cent.

Total trading for the day was 488,600 shares—the largest volume ever traded in a single stock on this exchange and over 25 per cent of the day's business.

Many of the trading orders were traced to Florida. But it has not been disclosed whether investigations have shown that buyers or sellers knew about or planted a tip to induce sales.

Such action by any person would obviously run afoul of the antimanipulation sections of the SEC act.

Since this telecast tip, the price of Pantepec has declined to around 7 1/2.

The warning which government officials now give to the investing public as a result of this case is to be extremely wary of all tips in a boom market on which the unprofessional investor can easily get hurt.

New Surgical Methods Help Babies With Heart Disease

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D. — Written for NEA Service

Since February is the month in which the American Heart Association conducts its annual drive it is appropriate that a more than average number of columns be devoted to the subject of various kinds of heart disease and their problems.

The one which follows discusses a few of the aspects of heart surgery. This is the field perhaps in which the most dramatic progress of the last few years has been made and which offers living testimony to the value of research.

ONE OF THE MOST important developments of heart surgery has been that used in the treatment of so-called "blue babies" or infants born with congenital heart disease. The bluish color of the skin is caused by lack of oxygen attached to the hemoglobin or coloring matter of the blood.

In blue babies the deficiency of oxygen is the result of a malformed heart or of the large blood vessels near it. Such defective structures permit the blood from the veins which contain only a little oxygen to mix with the blood from the arteries. The bright-red blood of the arteries which has passed through the lungs and has there received normal oxygen, supplies what is needed.

THERE ARE SEVERAL kinds of malformation of the heart which will permit this mixing of oxygen-containing and nonoxygen-containing blood. The various kinds are too numerous and too complicated to describe in detail. They carry such technical names as coarctation of the aorta, tetralogy of Fallot and pulmonary stenosis with intact ventricular septum. But it does make a difference to the patient because some kinds can now be successfully treated by surgery and others cannot.

In one of these conditions the passage-way between the heart and one of the large blood vessels which should normally close before birth fails to do so. This is called a patent or open ductus arteriosus. This opening can now be closed by delicate heart surgery with great success.

SEVERAL OTHER congenital malformations of the heart can also be treated successfully by surgery, but not all of them. For this reason careful study of each case has to be conducted individually in order to make a diagnosis and to decide whether or not surgery would offer chances of relief.

It should also be mentioned that surgery can sometimes be used in disorders of the heart other than those present at birth. Some heart valve complications of rheumatic fever fall in this class. Certain it is that the investigator and the experimental laboratory have already saved many lives by the surgical methods so far devised, and the end is not yet in sight.

Designer Dior Sticks To Long Torso Dresses

PARIS (AP)—Christian Dior unveiled his new spring collection today and didn't give an inch at the bust. But to his flat, H-line on top, and pacesetter added pleated or full skirts flaring widely at the hips for a triangular or "A" effect.

Dior goes in heavily for a sleeveless pullover jumper which, except for its color, often looks like a man's bathing suit top from the days when men covered up their chest hair and skin.

Belts pop up everywhere. Some fasten loosely at the hip line, some tightly hug a spot just below where the bustline would be of there were any bust. Only on pretty, bouffant-skirted garden party frocks or on short, full-skirted cocktail dresses do belts show up where some people still think they belong—at the waistline.

Although the back-to-the-20s long-torso-look continues, hip emphasis is somewhat modified.

Perhaps with tongue in cheek or to prove there still is such a thing as a bust, Dior allows two or three deeply plunging necklines without any attempt to conceal the curves.

The Limping Goose

by Frank Gruber

COPYRIGHT 1954 BY FRANK GRUBER. DISTRIBUTED BY MEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Being broke has led Johnny Fletcher and Sam Craig into another caper. First they were hounded by J. J. Kilkenny, a bill collector. They offered to collect a bill for him from Alice Cummings, a show-girl, who gave them a "limping goose" bank full of old coins in payment. Next Jess Carmichael III is murdered in Alice's apartment. Johnny and Sam call on the father of the murder victim and are retained to run down Lester Smithson, a cousin, who disappeared 12 years ago. James Sutton, another cousin, would be heir to the estate except for Smithson.

XIV
Sam took a headlong plunge at Kilkenny. His head hit Kilkenny's midriff, his left hand struck the bill collector's right arm and closed around it.

Kilkenny cried out hoarsely in pain and the gun clattered to the floor. Johnny scooped it up just as Sam hit Kilkenny a short chopping blow on the chin with his fist. Both Johnny and Sam stood up. Kilkenny's eyes were closed and he was moaning. Sam prodded him with his bare foot. "I hardly hit you."

Kilkenny got painfully to his feet, but the fight was gone from him.

"Gimme my gun," said Kilkenny, holding out his hand.

"Tenas," said Johnny. "You pull a gun on a man and he takes it away from you, it's his gun."

Kilkenny pointed to the limping goose bank. "At least, can I have that?"

"I just told you—you lost," Kilkenny scowled. "Watch yourself, Fletcher. When you're least expecting me, I'll pop up—and the gorilla won't be around."

"Gorilla!" cried Sam, and made another lunge. But the star of the Acme Adjustment Agency collection force had had enough. He whipped open the hall door and leaped through. Sam, in pajamas, closed the door and whirled back.

"There's what I like before breakfast," he cried cheerfully. "A workout."

A half hour later Johnny and Sam sat in the Automat, with Sam polishing off his second order of corned beef hash. He looked wistfully across at Johnny. "Suppose I could have another order, Johnny?"

"No, you've had enough to eat now. Sometime during the day I'll get that advance from James Sutton, then you can fill up. Right now, I think we'd better start earning that money."

"Where can you start on a deal like that?"

"The man who could probably tell us more about young Smithson than anyone is old Jess Carmichael." Then, as Sam winced: "He'll probably be busy with the police commissioner this morning. I think maybe we'll try it from the back door."

"What back door?"

"Alice Cummings's."

The receptionist at the Chateau Pelham tore off her headphones as Johnny and Sam walked past her desk, headed for the elevators.

"Just a moment, please!"

Johnny grimaced, but turned back. "We're just going up to see Miss Cummings."

"I remember you both. And I do not think Miss Cummings will want to see you." The operator made a phone connection, waited a moment, then said, "Miss Cummings, those two men who were here yesterday . . . Yes, that's right . . ." She showed surprise, then nodded. "Very well, Miss Cummings." She broke the connection and said disapprovingly to Johnny, "You may go up."

Alice Cummings closed the door. "I'm glad you came," she said, addressing Johnny, "I was a little short of money yesterday. But I have it now."

"We're all squared away, financially."

"But I was several dollars short, wasn't I?" Alice Cummings crossed to a table and picked up a red leather purse. "I always pay my debts. Let's see, the total bill was $74, I believe. And I gave you . . . how much in bills?"

"Fifty-seven. But—"

"Then I owe $17." She took out a fat roll of bills and began peeling off notes. "Now, if you'll give me back the little bank I gave you for security . . ."

"I haven't got it with me," said Johnny, "but don't bother. I accepted them in full payment."

"I want them back. I've been saving them for a long time."

Johnny hesitated. "I don't know whether I still have them all."

"You had no right to spend them. They're rare coins."

"That ain't what the coin dealer said," Sam exclaimed.

"So?"

"Ever hear of a man named Kilkenny?" Johnny suddenly shot at her. "J. J. Kilkenny?"

"Look, Fletcher," Alice Cummings said bluntly. "I don't give a hoot and a holler for this J. J. Kilkenny. I've paid you your money and I want that goose bank and what's in it. And I want it now."

Johnny said, "How long is it since you've seen Lester Smithson?"

Johnny was not sure whether the name scored or not. Alice was already pretty angry. She exclaimed, "Who's Lester Smithson?"

"Jess Carmichael's cousin."

"I'm not talking to you about Jess Carmichael. All I want from you is that bank and the coins it contained. I want it today — as soon as you can get it."

Johnny held out his hand for the $17. "All right, Alice, you'll have it."

Alice drew back. "Not so fast, you'll get this money when I get mine."

Assess $50 Fine On Gun Charge

Adelore Pare, 26, 1319 First Ave. N., Escanaba, was arraigned Monday afternoon in the court of Justice of Peace A. T. Sohlberg on a charge of having an unregistered revolver in his possession and upon his plea of guilty was fined $50 and assessed court costs of $4.30.

On a charge of failure to have Michigan licenses on his auto he also pleaded guilty and paid $2.00. Pare was arrested last Friday night by Michigan State Police on the traffic violation count and in looking over his auto an unloaded .22 calibre revolver, holstered, was found in the glove compartment. Cartridges for the weapon also were found in the glove compartment.

Pare was arrested on a concealed weapons charge and placed in the county jail pending investigation. An officer-seaman, Pare told officers he bought the gun at Lorain, Ohio, last October when his boat docked there and that he had failed to register the weapon.

Upon arraignment the charge was reduced to possession of an unregistered small-arm.

Several Scout Events Planned

A number of Boy Scout activities are on tap during the next several weeks, it was learned yesterday from Oscar Ohman, chairman of the camping and activities committee.

This Thursday evening at 6:30 Scouters will meet at the Swedish Lutheran Church in Bark River at which time a prospective replacement for field man Andy Houston will be interviewed.

On Thursday, Feb. 10, at 8 p. m., in the junior high school at Escanaba there will be a Court of Honor. Ten Scouts from one of Gladstone's troops will be up for awards at that time.

On Saturday, Feb. 19 at 10:30 a. m., at the Gladstone Sports Park on the Days River the Annual Klondike Derby will be held. This series of events always taxes the ingenuity of the Scouts and provides them with experience which stands them in good stead in the future.

Land Lubbers Are Neb. Navy Admirals

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—The mythical Nebraska Navy, which has nothing but "admirals," now has an historical strength of 75,000.

This was disclosed by M. E. Shaffer, who has lettered the impressive-looking commissions, replete with the state seal and everything, since they first began to be issued 21 years ago.

Governors of Nebraska bestow the Admiral commissions as a good will gesture.

More people get more news from newspapers than from all other sources combined.

Miss Elna Icke 's Bride Of Ronald Jones

At a double ring ceremony Saturday at the First Baptist Church, Miss Elna Lenore Icke, daughter of Mrs. Helme Gardner, 226½ Range St., became the bride of Ronald Earl Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jones, of Gulliver, The Rev. A. Barton Brown officiated at the 8 p. m., candlelight service.

During the service, Miss Gloria Stanley sang, "Oh Promise Me." The church was decorated with an arch, a kneeler and candelabra.

The bride was attired in a gown of white slipper satin with nylon net overskirt, and a bolero jacket of chantilly lace with sleeves coming to a point over the wrist. Her fingertip veil fell from a tiara of seed pearls, and her only jewelry was a pearl necklace and earrings, gifts of the bridegroom. She carried a colonial bouquet of red roses.

Miss Flossie Freeman, maid of honor, was the bride's only attendant. She wore a gown of pink net over taffeta with a pink lace bolero jacket, accented with a pearl necklace. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Roger J. Rosie, of Gulliver, served as best man.

Mrs. Gardner attended her daughter's wedding in a gold floral, street-length dress with red accessories. Mrs. Jones, the bridegroom's mother, wore a turquoise, street-length dress in a floral design. Both mothers wore corsages of white carnations.

A reception was held at Mueller Township Hall immediately after the service. The serving table was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake topped with miniature bride and bridegroom. Mrs. Robert LaFave, Miss Alice Icke and Mrs. Wells Bowers were in charge of the lunch. The newlyweds will make their home in Gulliver.

Knockouts Highlight Golden Gloves Bouts

Champs To Be Crowned In Finals Next Monday

Three knockouts and five TKOs studded the opening round of the Upper Peninsula Golden Gloves tournament at Holy Name gym before a 1,000 crowd last night.

The best amateur boxers in the Upper Peninsula traded leather in 16 action-packed bouts in the preliminaries, with 17 semi-final and championship fights scheduled Monday, Feb. 7, starting at 8:30.

With all five fighters in action last night, the host Escanaba team put three boys through the first round. George Hurley, Gerald Richer and Vic Sopina won while Al Swanson and Jim Brown were defeated.

Hurley, a 147-pound novice battler, earned one of the most popular decisions of the night when he belted out a unanimous decision over rugged Jimmy Vandevlede of Norway.

Scores Knockdown
Hurley fired heavy punches with both hands and scored an eight-count knockdown in the first round. Both fighters whaled away in the second with Hurley landing more often and the action never slackened in the third. The large crowd gave the fighters a standing ovation when the decision was announced.

Marquette's 135-pound novice Vern Ollie fought and won two fights in the opening round. A hard-hitting left-hander, Ollie stopped Iron Mountain's Al Best on a TKO in the second round and came back to earn a split decision over tough Joe Morin of Marquette who had defeated Conrad Letson in his first fight.

Ollie, one of the classiest scrappers in the field, had Best down for an eight-count in the first round and dropped his game opponent twice in the second before referee Miles Betts stopped the fight at 1:11. Morin also had Letson down twice enroute to his unanimous decision.

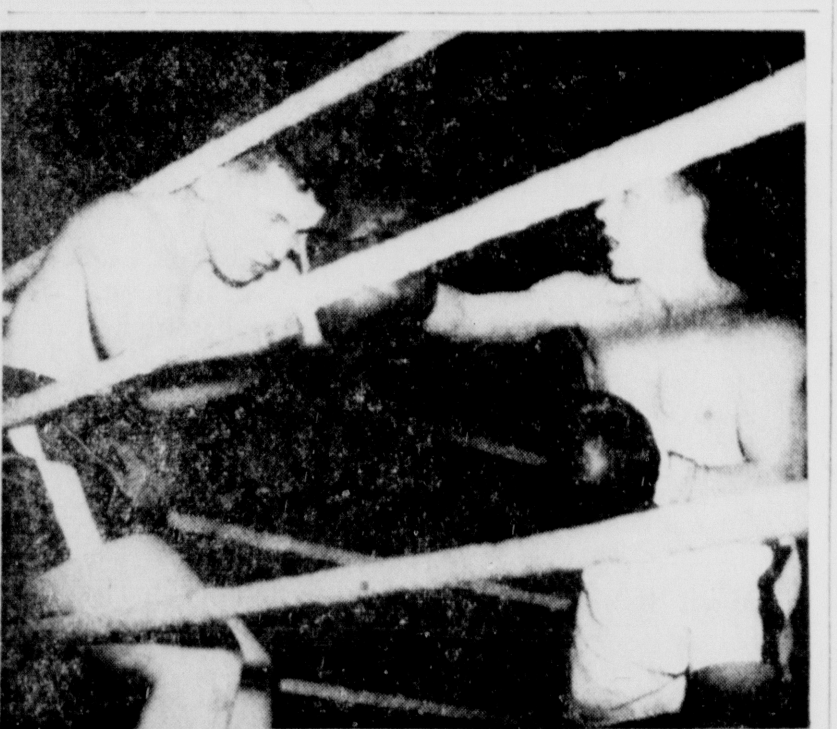

McVane Gets TKO
Jim McVane, Marquette bantamweight, took a wide margin in the first two rounds against Bob Pietro of National Mine and then stopped the blond southpaw with a short right to the head in the third round.

Buddy Holmberg, cagey Manistique featherweight defending his novice championship, scored a unanimous decision over clever Mickey Frazer of Marquette in one of the night's best scraps. Holmberg carried the fight with crushing hooks to the head and switched to a southpaw stance to land left crosses in the second and third rounds. Frazer was never in serious trouble and was effective at long range with jabs and straight right hands.

Escanaba's Jerry Richer waged a furious battle with Gary Tufnell of Manistique to earn a unanimous decision. Both boys were down for an eight-count in the first round and Richer's margin came on a long left lead which caught Tufnell coming in.

Dahlstrom Impressive
Al Swanson, Escanaba 135-pound novice, ran into the best right hand of the night thrown by Manistique's Loyal Archey early in the first round and took an eight-count. The game Escanaba fighter shook off the effects of the knockdown and came back swinging but caught another right to the jaw and went down for the 10-count.

Another promising prospect from Marquette, 135-pound Bob Dahlstrom, carried too much authority for Jim Killoran of Canadian Soo and scored a TKO in the third round. Dahlstrom had his opponent in trouble throughout the fight and referee Ray Mariucci stepped in to stop

135 Novice
Loyal Archey, Manistique KO'd Al Swanson, Escanaba, 1st round.
Bob Dahlstrom, Marquette TKO'd Jim Killoran, Soo, Ont., 3rd round.

160 Novice
John Wheeler, Marquette KO'd Larry Harmela, National Mine, 1st round.
Jim Wall, Norway decided Orlando Gioia, Soo, Ont., 1st round.

175 Novice
Vic Sopina, Escanaba TKO'd Bob Monck, Marquette, 3rd round.

Central Michigan Star Scores 46
MOUNT PLEASANT, Mich. (P)—Glen Stuart hit for 46 points Monday night to tie the Central Michigan individual scoring mark and lead Central to a 101-81 IIAAC basketball victory over Illinois Normal.

Central Michigan never was headed. The loss was Illinois Normal's sixth straight conference defeat without a victory.

Hawks Battle Radars At 8:15 Here Tonight

Escanaba's high flying Hawks, who have soared from the NMO cellar to second place behind only the "four-point" Canadian Soo sextet, will put their six-game surge right on the line here tonight when they tangle with the speedy Calumet Radars.

Faceoff time will be at 8:15 at the Escanaba fairgrounds rink. Matt Pavelich, of the Canadian Soo, will officiate, and Art Gardner will serve as linesman. Because of the Hawks' exceptionally fine play of late, a large crowd is expected.

The Escanabans have not tasted defeat since that 10-4 loss in Marquette Jan. 13 when Marquette fans heckled Referee Pavelich, showered the ice with coins, paper et cetera and turned what promised to be a fast, interesting game into something resembling a fiasco.

Fast Game Tonight
In six games since then, Coach Mark Olson's scrappy and smooth working Hawks have scored three ties with Portage Lake, Marquette and the Soo and three wins over Calumet, Portage Lake and Marquette. With Soo games being worth four points, that represents 10 points out of a possible 14—a surge that has boosted the Hawks into second place with 14 points. Marquette is third with 13, Portage fourth at 12 and Calumet has 11. Soo is first with 22 points, thanks to weekend four-point wins over Portage and Calumet.

A fast, close and highly interesting game is anticipated tonight inasmuch as Calumet is not accustomed to being in last place and will go all out at full strength for a win that would boost them to a third place tie with Marquette. Incidentally, it is quite something in NMO warfare to see Portage and Calumet struggling to escape the cellar.

Workout Last Night
Without a doubt, Coach Joe Savini will bring his strongest possible lineup to battle the Hawks tonight. That would mean big Clyde Berryman in the nets and Don Nichols and Enkku Kemp on defense. Calumet and Escanaba have met only twice before this season and Escanaba has triumphed both times, 7-4 there and 6-5 here.

His lineup also will feature the offensive stars Owen O'Brien, Fred Barry and Whitey Juopperi. Other Radars bolstering the Savini tribe are Howard Kumpula, Bob Makolin, Merv Paulson, John Dahlgren, John Kukuri, Mike Mill, Donald Pavelich and Gordon Moyle.

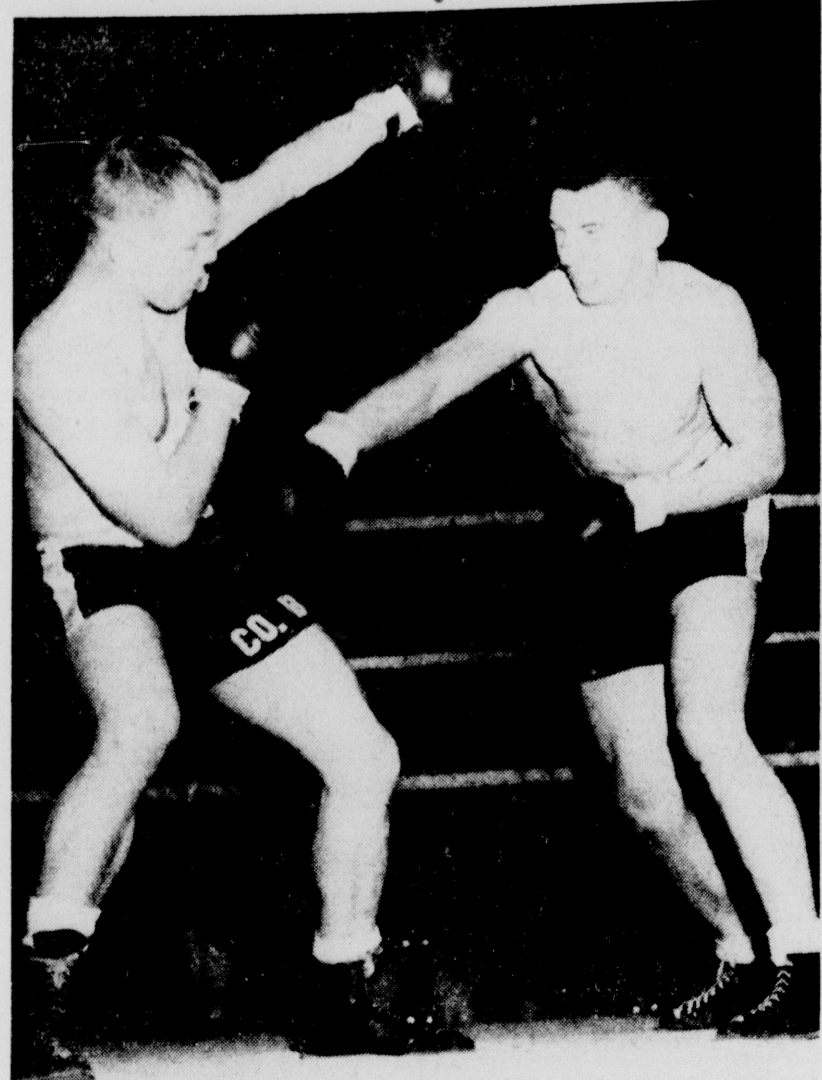

Coach Mark Olson put the Hawks through a fast, light workout last night and then excused them to attend the Upper Peninsula Golden Gloves tournament as guests of the Escanaba Lions Club.

'Hat Trick' Provo

The Hawks are ready to go all out again with "hat trick" Buddy Provo, Steve Butorac, Warner "Wiener" Wilson, Aimo Muhonen, Joe Ricci, Bill Suriano, Bob Higgins and Olson working up front and "iron man" Joe Noga, Floyd Stac, Dick Johnson and Mike Otis handling blueline duties in front of dependable Ben Artwich.

It is possible also that Tony Mancini will be on hand from Canadian Soo where he returned because of the illness of his father. Russ Overland was released before the Feb. 1 deadline.

Georgia Tech Scores Second Upset Victory Over Top-Ranked Kentucky

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Georgia Tech has struck down mighty Kentucky twice in less than a month, and it might cost the fallen Wildcats the Southeastern Conference title.

Georgia Tech whipped Kentucky, No. 1 team in the country, again Monday night, 65-59. From all appearances, Kentucky suffered a bad case of nerves.

Tech is the only team this year to beat the Wildcats, who have won 12.

The Big Ten basketball race leveled off somewhat as Northwestern and Michigan State gained a firm hold in the first division and Purdue dropped into the cellar.

Northwestern knocked Michigan into the second division, 96-81, and Michigan State climbed into a fourth-place tie with the Wildcats by beating Purdue, 79-72.

Buckeyes Win

In non-conference action, Ohio State beat St. John's 67-61 and Indiana rolled by Butler, 87-56.

"I don't know what to say," said amazed Georgia Tech Coach John Hyder after the Rambler's second victory over Kaintuck. "My kids played a whole of a ball game. We had them from the start."

Kentucky Coach Adolph Rupp observed that "it just goes to show you what a team can do when it makes up its mind to win. The free throws beat us."

The Wildcats missed every free throw in the first half and made only five all told to Tech's 25.

The Engineers gave another "iron man" performance. Bill Cohen, Dick Lenholt, Gary Phillips, Joe Helms and Bobby Kimmel went all the way. Helms was high man with 24 points.

Florida helped keep Kentucky's SEC title hopes alive by handing Alabama its first conference defeat 76-74.

Ehmann Hits 38

In other Southeastern Conference games, Auburn edged Georgia 78-76, Tulane whipped Mississippi State 69-60, and Mississippi beat Louisiana State 89-69.

Richmond clubbed West Virginia 106-67 and took over first place in the Southern Conference.

Frank Ehmann, currently one of the hottest scorers in the Big Ten, led the Northwestern victory. His 38 points broke the Northwestern record of 36 points set by Ray Regalis in 1951.

Purdue cut a 15 point Michigan State lead to 4 points with 2½ minutes left but the Spartans had enough left to win going away.

The loss dropped the Boiler-makers in the cellar with a 2-5 record.

Ohio State made it two in a row without the services of Robin Freeman, the Big Ten's leading scorer. Freeman has been sidelined with an injured ankle.

Indiana Gets Win

However, John Miller took up the slack with 20 points and Don Kelley added 18. St. John's held an 11-point lead in the first half but the Bucks came strong for a 35-28 halftime lead which held up.

Indiana's defending champions are making no mark nationally but the Hoosiers are rapidly becoming the top team in the state of Indiana. The triumph over Butler was the third for the Hoosiers over intrastate colleges. Valparaiso and Notre Dame were earlier victims.

In other major action, Duquesne, No. 4 team in this week's Associated Press poll, snapped a seven-game Niagara winning streak with a 65-48 victory; Arkansas knocked Southern Methodist out of a tie for the Southwest Conference lead, polishing off the Mustangs 85-74; Tulsa nipped Bradley 72-70; Wake Forest outscored Davidson 101-51, and Furman vanquished South Carolina 86-72.

International Boxing Club Is Charged With Being Monopoly

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department moved at top speed today to bring the International Boxing Club to trial as a monopoly that violates the antitrust laws.

The trial will take place in New York City and a spokesman for the Justice Department's Antitrust Division there said it probably would be sometime before July 1.

The Supreme Court Monday refused to grant boxing exemption from antitrust laws as it did baseball.

The government filed an antitrust suit against the IBC, headed by Jim Norris and Arthur M. Wirtz, in March 1952, but it was thrown out by Federal Judge Gregory F. Noonan of New York, who based his decision on the baseball case.

Former 6-2 Decision

The Supreme Court decision was by a 6-2 vote with Chief Justice Earl Warren writing the majority opinion. He noted that baseball first was exempted from antitrust laws in 1922 by the Supreme Court. In 1953 the court held that Congress, by failing to pass legislation specifically bringing baseball under the antitrust laws, had indicated it wanted baseball exempt.

But no such situation prevailed for boxing, the opinion continued. If it is to be exempt, "the issue is for Congress to resolve, not this court."

The minority opinion, written by Justice Felix Frankfurter, said it would "baffle the subtlest ingenuity to find a single differentiating factor between other sporting exhibitions, whether boxing, or football or tennis and baseball insofar as conduct of the sport is relevant to the question of antitrust prosecution."

Norris issued a statement saying that the decision merely means that the government must prove its monopoly charges.

Norris said he was confident, "that the court will vindicate our position that in presenting seven or eight championship bouts a year we do not operate an illegal monopoly within the meaning of the Sherman Act."

The government position is that Norris and Wirtz, along with the Madison Square Garden Corp., have been conspiring since 1949 to monopolize the promotion, exhibition, broadcasting and televising of boxings, whether boxing, or football or tennis and baseball insofar as conduct of the sport is relevant to the question of antitrust prosecution."
